HOUSTON, Tex. – June 22, 2010 – TERIS announced today its expansion into the growing Houston litigation support market, led by respected Houston eDiscovery industry veteran Terra Buckley. Buckley has worked in the electronic discovery (eDiscovery) and legal technology industry for more than 10 years, during which time she has gained a strong reputation for her development and implementation of cost- and time-saving litigation technology initiatives for Fortune 100 corporate legal departments and Am Law 200 law firms.

TERIS's success in its eight other locations, particularly in the area of eDiscovery, has led to its expansion into the Houston market despite the recent recession.

“Entering the Houston market is an exciting step for TERIS,” said TERIS Partner and Chief Operating Officer Kip Hauser. “We are excited to bring our expertise in eDiscovery and related litigation support services to this demanding market. TERIS is committed to earning the trust of clients in Houston as we have done in each of the other eight markets we serve and we know the only way to do this is to provide exceptional value, knowledge and service.”

Buckley joined TERIS in September, 2009 as National Accounts Director. She previously held Sales Director and leadership roles with some of the nation's leading litigation support service providers, where she developed and expanded digital litigation support services to existing and potential national accounts.

Buckley is certified with several industry-leading hosted and ESI solutions and has completed numerous top-level core management business courses. She is a member of ARMA, HALSM, Women in eDiscovery, HMPA, and ALSP litigation support organizations. She received her bachelor's degree from the University of Washington.
